Stan Szpytek, Deputy Fire Chief, Retired / AHCA Disaster Ready & Life Safety Consultant

No one ever envisions an armed intruder or active shooter in their building, but it could happen to you – are you prepared? This pre-convention intensive session will focus on the realities of “The Unthinkable” — an active shooter or armed intruder. Providers of all types have likely identified this specific threat in their Hazard Vulnerability Assessment (HVA). State and federal guidance requires that health care facilities, assisted living communities and other senior living providers establish protocols to manage these adverse events. With former responders as instructors, this program will take a deep dive to focus on the importance of preparedness, response options and recovery considerations when faced with “The Unthinkable.”

Right the Ship and Set Sail for FY23 PDPM Parity Adjustments | ADM, CR

Jim Shearon, Vice President, Real Time Medical Systems

The Patient-Driven Payment Model (PDPM) transformed how SNFs provide, track, and code patient care. Then the pandemic required facilities to change course, creating additional obstacles and sinking PDPM's intended budget neutrality. Navigating the waters in FY23 may prove challenging – the three-day stay waiver will likely end, Medicare rates will decrease, and additional documentation requests for payment determinations will increase. While PDPM parity adjustments are deferred until FY23, operators should take the helm now to ensure SNFs are on board to meet new CMS rules on the horizon.

Increasing our Capacity for Empathic Listening to Ease Conflict | SS, ADM

Paige Hector, LMSW, Professional Speaker and Clinical Educator, Paige Ahead Healthcare Education & Consulting, LLC

Working in a healthcare setting can be stressful and fraught with conflict, sometimes with situations that stimulate strong emotions that activate our biological stress response. When activated, we are more likely to respond with habituated language that blocks empathy. By strengthening our empathic listening skills, firmly grounded in trauma-informed care principles, we can show up in these difficult situations with better resources and make choices that align with our values. This session teaches nonviolent communication skills that support empathic connections with ourselves and others to make work more enjoyable and to increase wellbeing for all.
